Northern Arizona University

FORESTRY CLUB

Dedication

The staff of the "Annual Yield" and students of the School of Forestry take great pride in dedicating this 1966 edition to Dr. Martin B. Applequist.

Since coming to Flagstaff in 1959 Apple has shared with students a wealth of knowledge and experience in dendrology, silviculture, and soils. In teaching these courses he has demonstrated a keen academic knowledge and a determination to stimulate students to become truly educated individuals. His interest and efforts in the Society of American Foresters stand as an example and inspiration to all foresters. The Southwest Section owes much of its professional development to Apple's hard work on the scholarship program, on establishment of natural areas, and in recruitment of members.

In community service, Apple has been a dedicated worker. His efforts with Boy Scouts, church, PTA, and charitable undertakings have been of real help to Flagstaff and Arizona. As Danforth representatives on campus, he and Mrs. Applequist have entertained and counseled many students.

It is only through Apple's enthusiasm and his help and guidance that the "Annual Yield" ever became a reality. His continued leadership has made this second edition possible. This winningness to help us typifies the total and unswerving devotion to forestry and forest education he has always shown.

Apple, your contributions to forestry and society have been great. With sincere appreciation and respect we dedicate this annual to you.

Report on the School of Forestry

This annual report on the School provides an opportunity for the writer to discuss progress and developments. In 1966 we are proud indeed to report a change in name and status. On May 1 we become Northern Arizona University with the School of Forestry one of seven independent schools and colleges. The members of the class of 1966 thus become our first University graduates. Along with this distinction, I hope each member of the class realizes that he is representing the University at the critical first phase of its development.

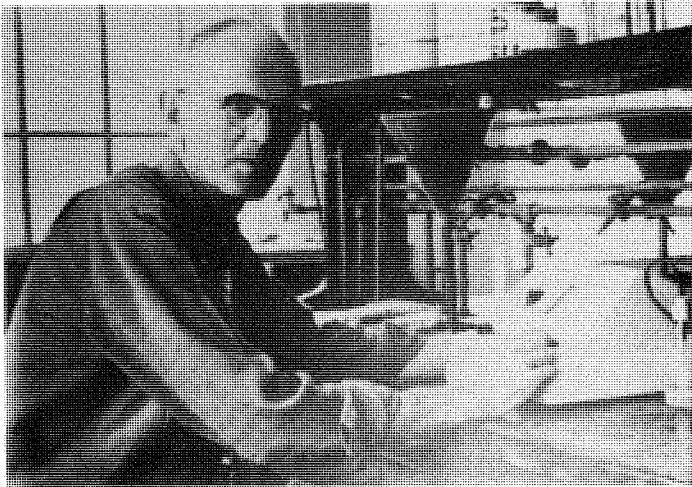

The past year has seen some progress and a maturing of our program. With the addition to our faculty of Dr. Don Wommack this spring we've entered the field of forest genetics--until now a complete blank in Southwestern forestry.

Research results are beginning to take shape. Coincident with University Week we're publishing the first "Arizona Forestry Note", based upon research by Gene Story who has just written the first thesis in forestry.

We're proud of these accomplishments, and we are especially pleased with the name being made by our alumni. In federal, state, and private employment, and in graduate schools our graduates are doing well. Keep up the good work! And keep in touch with us in the future years. Not only are we interested in your activities and progress, but we'll be seeking your ideas as we develop in the future. We all look forward to your visits and the welcome mat is always out.

Finally, a word of praise to those students who've worked so hard on this second edition of the "Annual Yield". You've maintained the tradition started last year, and set a tough goal for those who follow you. My sincere congratulations!

also available)
A #9 Saw is 11.95

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR PRUNING

For Tree Pruning, we recommend a 12 ft. Telescopic Pole which telescopes from 6 ft. to 12 ft. To this pole you can add as many sectional 6 ft. poles as you may need to reach up to 60 or 80 feet.

The Telescopic Pole permits you to keep the bottom end on the ground, thereby letting the ground do most of the heavy work. As you need a 6 ft. pole added to telescopic pole, all you do is slip it over the end of telescopic pole and secure it with two bolts with wing nuts.
With this type of pole, an elderly man or woman can prune tall trees with 1/4 the effort required with a pole that is too short, that requires holding arms over your head.

Additional 6 ft. sections are $5.50 each plus delivery of approximately $4.00 out of state.

You can join 6-ft. sections together for a 12, 18, 24, 30, etc.
up to 42-ft. for washing windows, walls, etc.

When ordering additional attachments for poles you have to specify type and diameter of pole to assure perfect fit.
